New iGo Netbook Charger Ranked as One of PC World's Best Products of 2009

iGo's Ultra-Portable Power Solution for Netbooks Recognized as One of the Top Consumer Electronics to Hit the Market This Year

SCOTTSDALE, AZ, Nov 10, 2009 (MARKETWIRE via COMTEX) -- Joining an impressive list of the most outstanding hardware, software sites and services to debut this year, the iGo Netbook Charger from iGo(R) (NASDAQ: IGOI), a leading provider of portable power solutions, was ranked number 36 on PC World's Top 100 Products of 2009. With evaluations based on design, functionality, performance and impact, PC World's Top 100 Products list also includes standouts such as the Apple App Store, Twitter and Google Voice.

With netbook sales expected to increase 99% in 2009(1), the iGo Netbook Charger is compatible with virtually all netbooks on the market, including brands like Asus, Acer, Dell, Lenovo, LG, Sony, Toshiba and HP. Using the included iGo USB cable with the appropriate iGo power tip for a phone, iPod and more, the new iGo Netbook Charger allows travelers to use only one charger to power nearly all electronic devices which removes the need for multiple chargers and helps reduce landfill e-waste.

Launched in August of this year, the iGo Netbook Charger is available at www.iGo.com for $69.99 and can power and charge netbooks from any wall, car or airplane outlet, while a wall-charging only version is also available for $49.99. The iGo Netbook Charger can also be found at Verizon Wireless and OfficeMax, and at airports across the country. Ideal for both business and leisure travelers, the iGo Netbook Charger works worldwide without a voltage converter.
